Fernando Nelson

IT IS the boast of Fernando Nelson that he has built more houses in San Francisco than any other individual or any corporation in the city.

If all the houses built by him were placed side by side they would stretch as far as from the Ferry building to the Presidio.

Fernando Nelson was born in New York City, February 4, 1860. He is the owner and builder of one of the finest as well as one of the most picturesque residences to be found in this part of the country.

This residence is located in Presidio Terrace, San Francisco, and combines attractive architectural features gathered from all over the world.

Mr. Nelson is president of the Board of Trustees of the Richmond Masonic Temple Company. He is greatly interested in motoring, and is first president of the San Francisco Motor Club.

G. A. Dubois

GUY A. DUBOIS is a San Franciscan whose name stands high in business circles. He is president of the Byron Jackson Iron Works, the oldest and largest pump manufactory in the West. Two hundred men are employed by this concern, which has its factory in West Berkeley and its main office at 357 Market street, San Francisco.

Mr. Dubois bought out Byron Jackson shortly after the fire in 1906. He re-equipped the factory, and since then has built the multi-stage pump installed in the fireboats Scannell and Sullivan. This pump has a development of 1,800 horsepower, 700-foot head, and 1,800 revolutions. It is regarded as one of the finest pieces of mechanism of its kind ever built.

Mr. Dubois was born in New York in 1868. He belongs to the old Dubois family, dating back to pre-Revolutionary times in New York.

Joseph Vincent de Laveaga

JOSEPH VINCENT DE LAVEAGA, son of Miguel and Marie Le Briton de Laveaga, was born in San Francisco, October 12, 1879.

He graduated from the University of California in 1900, and the Hastings Law College in 1902. He is one of the rising lawyers of San Francisco, and has built up a large practice among the best class of business and professional men.

He is a bon vivant, and popular with all classes. He believes in good government and is always on the side of clean citizenship.

W. S. Davis

WINFIELD SCOTT DAVIS of the insurance firm of J. B. F. Davis & Son is a native of San Francisco. His father, the founder of the firm, sailed from Boston for San Francisco in 1849, making the trip around Cape Horn. He was a carpenter and engaged in the rebuilding of the city after the fires of 1850-51. He was also a member of the Vigilance Committee of that period, and during the War of the Rebellion was chief deputy under Internal Revenue Collector Caleb T. Clay. He began in the insurance business in 1865, and his son, W. S. Davis, took up the same work in 1880. W. S. Davis is also president of the Pacific Fire Extinguisher Co. He was married in 1885 to Miss Clara M. Boole, daughter of Wm. A. Boole, a prominent shipbuilder. He has two children, a daughter who is the wife of Kenneth MacDonald, the architect, and a son, who is attending a preparatory school in Tarrytown, New York. ## Frank H. Johnson

WHEN the history of aviation is written in that day to come when the aeroplane is as common as the automobile, the name of Col. Frank Hansford Johnson will be set down as one of its pioneers in the West. Colonel Johnson is the head of the Frank H. Johnson Mercantile Co., but writes down his profession as "aviator." He is agent for the Curtiss Aeroplane Co., and has the distinction of having owned the first automobile ever in California and much more recently of having owned the first aeroplane here. He flew with Curtiss and Paulhan at the great aviation meet in Los Angeles in January, 1910. He has also made flights at Marysville, Chico, Stockton, Woodland, Salinas, Alameda, Hanford, Coalinga, Merced and San Jose. Colonel Johnson is a Republican, and is lieutenant colonel on the staff of the Commander in Chief of the California National Guard. He is married and has one child. He is a native son, having been born in this city in 1885. He is a member of the Olympic and Pacific Aero Clubs.

H. L. A. Bates

H. L. A. BATES was born in Cuddalore, India, on October 20, 1860. He is a son of General Charles Edward Bates, Madras Staff Corps. Mr. Bates left India when very young, and was educated in Switzerland and England. As a young man he became a midshipman in the English Mercantile Marine, having been educated for such on the school frigate "Conway," at Liverpool, and on graduation was commissioned a midshipman in the Royal Naval Reserve.

Mr. Bates came to the United States in 1880 and resided in Minneapolis, Minn., and Billings, Mont., before coming to San Francisco, in 1889. He has been continuously engaged in fire insurance since 1881, and is the general agent of The Shawnee Fire Insurance Company of Topeka, Kan., for its Pacific department, comprising the territory west of the Rocky Mountains.

During Mr. Bates' residence in Montana he was City Treasurer of the city of Billings, and United States Commissioner. He is the father of five sons, and resides in Alameda. He was married in 1885 to Miss R. Helen Rixon, daughter of John Rixon, Esq., of Ontario, Canada.

L. & M. Alexander

BEGINNING at the very bottom of the ladder of business, Leo E. Alexander and Michael S. Alexander have become leaders among the typewriter dealers of the Pacific Coast. Leo began his career as a clerk and Michael as a shorthand reporter. They had very little capital when they first started their typewriter agency, but their progress into one of the substantial firms of the city has been rapid. They originally introduced the Smith-Premier typewriter on the Pacific Coast, but are now agents for the L. C. Smith machine. They now stand among the largest exclusive typewriter dealers in the United States, having branch offices at Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle and Spokane, in addition to their main office at 512 Market street, San Francisco.

P. J. Kelleher

THERE is no better known Irishman in San Francisco than P. J. Kelleher, "The Irish Tailor." He left County Kerry, Ireland, 23 years ago, going first to Philadelphia, thence to Chicago, where he remained a year, and coming thence to San Francisco. He was married when he was 25 years old, is now 43, and has nine children. He is associated with George A. Browne in the firm of Kelleher & Browne, The Irish Tailors.

Mr. Kelleher is the champion Gaelic dancer of the Pacific Coast, and has been president of the Original Gaelic Dancing Club for ten years. He is active in every Irish movement tending to benefit his native land, and is also prominent in many fraternal organizations. Politically he is a Democrat, but at the last election was the Union Labor Party's nominee for Public Administrator. He was defeated by "Billy" Hynes by a small majority.

H. L. Metcalf

H. L. METCALF, one of the substantial men in railroad circles of San Francisco and a man who is keeping step with the general march of advancement, was born in the State of New York in 1877. He did not stay long in his native state, but migrated west and graduated from the University of Nebraska.

He became active in railroad circles about twelve years ago, being connected with the legal department of the Southern Pacific. Later he served in the executive department of the Pullman Car Works. Mr. Metcalf is now Chief Clerk to Vice-President and General Manager E. E. Calvin, of the Southern Pacific Company.

Frederic W. Eaton

FREDERIC WARD EATON, secretary and treasurer of the Pacific States Telephone Company, is the son of a California "forty-niner." His parents were both New Englanders, and he himself was born in Boston in 1844. His father came to San Francisco in 1849, and his mother followed with her three children in 1852. Mr. Eaton was educated in the public schools here and graduated from the City College in 1860. He was in the drug business for a few years, then went to Idaho, returning in two years to go into the tobacco business here. From 1872 to 1889 he was in the grain and freighting business, entering the service of the telephone company in 1889. From 1875 to 1877 he was a member of the Board of Supervisors. He was married in 1869 to Rose L. Miller. He has one living son.

A. J. BARNETT

Joseph H. Kirk

BORN in Chicago in 1859, Joseph H. Kirk just missed being a native son, for he was brought to Marin County, California, when he was but three months old, and spent his boyhood there. He was admitted to the bar in 1880. In January, 1887, he was appointed Assistant District Attorney of San Francisco, and later became Acting District Attorney. During his term as public prosecutor he took an active part in the famous trials of Alexander Goldenson, charged with murder; John A. Dinning, accused of causing the mysterious death of Henry Benhayon, and Seneca Swahn, who was found guilty of the larceny of the McDonald jewels. Since May, 1888, Mr. Kirk has been chief counsel for the Board of Trade. He issued the first call for the meeting of the wholesale merchants after the fire of 1906 and was largely instrumental in locating sites for their immediate resumption of business. He was married September 1, 1888, to Josephine Louise Miller, youngest daughter of James Miller of Miller Hall, San Mateo, California.

Leo G. Kaufman

LEO G. KAUFMAN has come into prominence in the ranks of realty dealers in recent years, the firm of Leo G. Kaufman & Co. now standing among the foremost in the city. This is due in large measure to the work done by Mr. Kaufman since the big fire, he having been instrumental in negotiating 216 leases during the period of re-establishing the downtown business district.

He has also organized a number of investment companies, some of which have bought properties and erected substantial buildings, while others have taken fifty-year leases on ground on which they have built. In several of these Mr. Kaufman has invested his own capital, being interested chiefly in Market street properties.

Before coming to San Francisco Mr. Kaufman was a prominent citizen of Bellingham, Washington, where he was president of the Merchants' Association. He also operated in real estate in Spokane, Washington. He is a staunch Republican, and is 41 years old. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Kaufman, reside in San Francisco.

CHARLES J. HAMILTON, undersheriff of San Francisco, was born in his home city on April 4, 1882. His parents, Samuel and Mary Hamilton, were natives of Ireland. Mr. Hamilton graduated from Sacred Heart College in 1902, and was married on May 16, 1906, to Miss Rosalie Hollohan. Two children have been born to them, both daughters, Dorothy and Marian. Mr. Hamilton is a member of the Union Labor Party.

J. BARTH

Llewellyn B. Dutton

FEW men have had more to do with the upbuilding of San Francisco than Llewellyn B. Dutton. His successful work in the reconstruction of a great many of the city's prominent buildings has contributed in a large measure to the present up-to-date appearance of San Francisco.

Llewellyn B. Dutton was born at Elma, N. Y., Feb. 27, 1860. His father and mother were descendants of early English colonists.

At the age of 21, Mr. Dutton went to Chicago to study architecture under W. L. B. Jenny, and afterwards with Cobb & Frost.

He was later sent by D. M. Burnham & Co. to open an office for them in San Francisco. He put up the Merchants Exchange and Chronicle buildings.

After the big fire of 1906 he reconstructed the Crocker Bank building, built the Metropolitan Trust & Savings Bank, the Mechanics Savings Bank, and many other large buildings in and around the city.

Bernard J. Joseph

BERNARD J. JOSEPH is one of San Francisco's leading young architects. He was born in this city in February, 1875. After attending the public schools he obtained his professional education, or rather the beginning of it, at the Technical College of San Francisco.

He was formerly employed by J. B. Kraft and by Tharp & Holmes, and to Mr. Kraft he gives the credit for most of his technical knowledge.

He was associated with G. Albert Landsburgh in the construction of the Orpheum Theatre, the Gunst building, and a number of other big downtown structures. He has done a vast amount of architectural work in San Francisco.

THE younger generation of western attorneys includes many native Californians, who have risen to considerable prominence. Among these is Harold Louderback, who was born in San Francisco on January 30, 1881.

Mr. Louderback's legal mind is a heritage, his father, who was a pioneer of '49, having been a judge in San Francisco back in the '60's. His mother, who before her marriage was Miss Frances Caroline Smith, was herself a native of San Francisco, and on both sides of his family Mr. Louderback traces his ancestry back to American colony the days before the Revolution.

Graduating from the University of Nevada in 1905, Mr. Louderback went to Harvard, where he received the degree of Bachelor of Laws in 1908, being admitted to the bar in Boston, Mass., in the same year.

He at once came to California to practice. He is a Republican in politics and is first lieutenant of the Fourth Company, Coast Artillery Corps, National Guard of California.

Oscar Hocks

OSCAR HOCKS, who as a member of the Board of Supervisors of San Francisco has occupied a prominent place in politics, was born in Germany on September 20, 1870. He is a son of Wilhelm Hocks and Emma Gibsen, both of whom were born in his own native town of Aachen. Mr. Hocks was elected a Supervisor first in 1904, his first term expiring in 1905. He was re-elected in 1908, and again in 1910, and still holds the position. Politically he is a Democrat. Mr. Hocks is a merchant by profession, and is engaged in the wholesale liquor trade. He graduated from college in Germany in 1887, and was married on September 7, 1899.

Dr. C. R. Bricca

CONSTANTINE RAPHAEL BRICCA, widely known as an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, was born in San Francisco in 1880. He is a graduate of St. Ignatius College with the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and also of the medical department of the University of California. In his special line of practice he has had extensive experience both in the East and in Europe, having studied with the master minds of this particular branch of the medical profession.

Dr. Bricca was chief medical inspector of the San Francisco public schools during the last administration, having inaugurated a system of medical inspection and examination never before known in public school work. He resigned in the latter part of 1909. Dr. Bricca's activities have not been confined to his profession. He is president of the Harlow-Bricca Company, an exclusive mail order house doing an extensive business. He is married and has a family.

CHAS. C. BOYNTON

Daniel M. Hanlon

SON of one of the early pioneer shipbuilders of California, Daniel M. Hanlon was born in San Francisco, June 4, 1868.

Mr. Hanlon is vice-president and manager of the Mark Sheldon Company, prominent real estate owners of San Francisco. His company built the first brick building erected in San Francisco after the fire of 1906. This stands on the old location at the corner of Kearny and Commercial streets that all old Californians will remember as the old I X L corner.

The Mark Sheldon Company started the construction of the Sheldon building in the late fall of 1906 and had it completed and occupied by the early part of 1908. Mr. Hanlon is a member of the Family and the Press clubs of San Francisco.

J. Emmet Hayden

J. EMMET HAYDEN is a member of the firm of Kilborn & Hayden, proprietors of the Ferry Cafe, one of the first restaurants to be established in San Francisco following the great fire. He was born in San Francisco on July 14, 1869, and has always been a resident of this city.

While he has been an active and successful business man, his activities have not all been confined to business channels. He is a member of Tamalpais Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West, and has been prominent in the affairs of the order for many years.

He received his education at the College of the Sacred Heart, and was graduated from that institution in 1889.

Mr. Hayden is a member of the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco.

John Hermann

JOHAN HERMANN, president of the Hermann Safe Company, has for years figured as one of the progressive, substantial business men of San Francisco. Born in Hermannstadt, Austria, in 1857, he finished the prescribed high school course, learned his trade, and left his native city in 1874. He spent several years in the leading safe and vault factories of Europe, coming to the United States in 1882 and visiting the big Eastern factories. He came to San Francisco in 1883, and in 1889 started his present business in an unpretentious way in a small shop on Commercial street. Practical knowledge, persistency, hard work and honest business methods built up for him the largest safe and vault factory on the Pacific Coast.

Hermann safes and vaults are installed in the new postoffice, the United States custom house, the Mint, the Appraisers' building, the Parrott Estate, Alaska Commercial and many other buildings, besides many banks, not only in San Francisco but all over the state. They have also been installed in the Portland postoffice and customhouse, and in the postoffices of Oakland and Los Angeles.

Mr. Hermann is president of the German American League of California, being recently elected for a fifth term. This is the highest office that a German-American can be honored with in social and fraternal life. He is also a member of the Two Hundred Ways and Means Committee for the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco in 1915.

Bozo Mitrov Gopcevic

As proprietor of the Servian American, which was the first newspaper of its type ever published outside of Europe, he made a successful record for over twelve years.

He was appointed to a position in the United States Mint in San Francisco by President Harrison. He also held a responsible position in the United States Land Office.

Mr. Gopcevic has always been a staunch Republican supporter. He stands to-day a fine example of the self-made man.

William J. Gorham

WILLIAM J. GORHAM, president and manager of the Gorham Rubber Company, operating stores in San Francisco, Seattle, Spokane, Los Angeles, Portland and Oakland, started in the rubber business in the Goodyear Rubber Company's factory when he left school some 30 years ago. In two years' time he became superintendent of the factory, holding the position for sixteen years, when he started his present business in the old J. Hendy building, in a little 20x40 room, with a boy whom he paid $3 weekly as his sole assistant. That boy now holds one of the most responsible positions with the firm. Mr. Gorham started business with $2,000 of borrowed capital, which he paid back during his first year. The concern's last inventory showed assets of more than $5,800,000. The main office and store is located at No. 56 Fremont street, San Francisco, and is one of the largest rubber establishments in the country.

Samuel G. McMeen

SAMUEL G. McMEEN is a member of the firm of McMeen & Miller, electrical engineers of Chicago and San Francisco, making his home in the latter city. He designed and constructed the telephone system of the Bay Cities Home Telephone Company, all new property built since the fire of 1906. He holds the position of vice-president and consulting engineer for the Bay Cities Home Telephone Company, and is a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and a member of the Western Society of Engineers. He obtained his technical training at Purdue University. Mr. McMeen says his age is one secret that he refuses to reveal, but he confesses to having a granddaughter. He says he expects to live in San Francisco until 1986, or longer, and to pursue in the meantime his two hobbies, fishing and the telephone business.

JUDGE F. P. BULL

GEORGE W. BARNHART, western manager for the Marion Steam Shovel Company, 718 Monadnock building, San Francisco, was born near Marion, Marion County, Ohio. He came to San Francisco about 34 years ago, finding employment in the law department of the firm of A. L. Bancroft & Co. After a fire destroyed the Bancroft building in 1886, he took a position with the firm of Bancroft-Whitney Co. After being there two years, he became, in 1888, western manager for the Marion Steam Shovel Company, and has held this position for 22 years.

The Marion Steam Shovel Company, whose works are located at Marion, Ohio, is one of the largest manufacturing establishments of its kind in the country. Its trade extends all over the civilized world, and it has agencies in every important foreign country. Mr. Barnhart has handled a vast amount of business for it on the Pacific Coast.

E. C. Leffingwell

ELMORE C. LEFFINGWELL was private secretary to ex-Mayor McCarthy of San Francisco, and was born at Green Bay, Wisconsin, June 29, 1875. He spent his early years in Milwaukee, and after completing his education there became a reporter and cartoonist for Peck's Sun, a widely-known weekly journal. He soon passed on to daily newspaper work, moved to Chicago, and from that city came to San Francisco to work for the Chronicle in 1893. He was with the Chronicle for three years, then with the Post, subsequently serving as telegraph editor of the Examiner and as night editor of the Associated Press. While political editor of the Evening Post he was appointed to the Board of Election Commissioners, serving three years while still doing newspaper work. He was then appointed secretary of the Board of Education, serving four years in that capacity. He had long been a friend and admirer of P. H. McCarthy, supporting the mayor when he first ran for the office. In the last municipal campaign he plunged into the fight earnestly, and when Mr. McCarthy was elected he at once chose Mr. Leffingwell for his secretary. Mr. Leffingwell is a Republican in national politics, but has always been an active supporter of organized labor. He at one time formed a Reporters' Union here. He has held several offices in the San Francisco Press Club and is also a member of the Olympic Club.

Walker C. Graves

WALKER COLEMAN GRAVES, attorney at law, was born in Kentucky on June 10, 1849. His parents, Coleman and Virginia Graves, were both natives of Virginia. Graduating from the University of Kentucky law school in 1878, Mr. Graves has practiced his profession for thirty years in San Francisco. He married Maude Strother James, daughter of the late Jefferson G. James, May 17, 1882, and has two sons, Jefferson James Graves and Walker Coleman Graves, both grown. He was special assistant district attorney of San Francisco for two years, and was the Democratic candidate for Attorney General the year ex-Mayor Pond ran for governor. He is now president of the

J. G. James Co., engaged in the wholesale butcher, cattle and ranch business, and in the colonization of 18,000 acres of land, a part of the company's Fresno ranch of 75,000 acres. Mr. Graves is still engaged in the active practice of law.

S. A. KNAPP

J. V. Coleman

JAMES V. COLEMAN was born in New York in 1851, of Irish parents. A graduate of Georgetown University, he is the holder of the following degrees: A. B., A. M., LL. B., and Ph. D. Although graduated a lawyer he never practiced, but early came West and took up mining. In public life he served as Assemblyman from San Mateo in 1882-4, and was chairman and author of Lake Bigler Forestry Commission. Still on the Democratic party, he ran for nomination for governor in 1886, when Pond was nominated. One hundred and thirty-six delegates stayed with him to the last, refusing to change their votes. Mr. Coleman is married and has one son.

Edward Chambers

EDWARD CHAMBERS is one of the Santa Fe railroad's big men in the West. He has been identified with the road in California for many years and has done much toward building up its traffic here. Mr. Chambers is assistant freight and traffic manager of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe system. He is a native of Illinois, having been born in that state on February 16, 1859.

James Newlands, Jr.

AN adopted son of the City by the Golden Gate is James Newlands, Jr., who came to California in the year of 1878, and with a school and business college education, at the age of 19 started his way up the ladder of success. After he had spent several years in the wilds of Nevada, mining, assaying, surveying and ranching, his ability was brought to the attention of the Sharons, who were quick to recognize him as the right man in the right place, and at the age of 26 he was placed in charge of the vast interests of the estate throughout California. He soon became a director of the estate, and is now president of several well known mining companies and a part owner of the famous Mt. Tamalpais mine. Mr. Newlands was born in Washington, D. C., in 1869.

Benj. G. McDougall

BENJAMIN GEER McDOUGALL, architect, has long been identified with many of the biggest architectural undertakings, not only in San Francisco, but in the interior of the state. Mr. McDougall is an architect by heritage, having at one time been a member of the firm of McDougall & Son, his father having been Barnett McDougall. Born in San Francisco in 1866. Mr. McDougall took up the study of architecture in 1883, and has pursued the profession actively ever since. He was married on May 14, 1896, to Miss Frances E. Hawkins, three children being born to them.

HENSHAW

E. E. Hewlett

E. E. HEWLETT is one of the best known young attorneys of San Francisco. He was born in Petaluma, California, on June 5, 1878. Aside from being a Native Son, he has in him the sturdy mixture of England and New England blood, his father being a native of the mother country and his mother of Maine. Mr. Hewlett graduated from the University of California as a Bachelor of Letters in 1900. He later received the degree of Bachelor of Laws from the Hastings Law College and still later from the great Harvard Law School. He is married, is a Republican in politics, and has a big practice in his profession.

Thomas S. Molloy

SAN FRANCISCO boasts an array of attorneys at law whose prominence in the American bar has long been recognized. Incidentally in their work of restoring titles that were all but lost in the great fire of 1906, they have done much in the rehabilitation of the city, particularly in putting the city on a substantial business basis.

One of San Francisco's lawyers whose name stands among the leaders is Thomas S. Molloy, who, like many other prominent citizens, is a native son. Mr. Molloy was born in San Francisco on December 26, 1869. He was educated in the public schools, and then graduated from the University of California in 1892. He has been practicing his profession for many years.

Lester L. Morse

A MAN who has done a great deal toward making San Francisco the great seed center of the Pacific Coast is Mr. Lester L. Morse. Born in Santa Clara, California, he started in business with his father, C. C. Morse, whose name the company now bears under the presidency and management of the son. Five years ago he personally negotiated the combination of the two great companies, The Cox Seed Company and E. J. Bowen & Co., with his own company, a clever merger, which has resulted advantageously for the stockholders of the present concern, C. C. Morse & Co.

Mr. Morse is married and has two children. He is recognized as an active and progressive citizen.

Henry H. Meyers

HENRY H. MEYERS, by profession an architect, is a native of California, born in 1867. His father, J. F. Meyers, comes from Pennsylvania, and his mother, Mary E. Meyers, was born in Germany.

After graduating from the high school, Mr. Meyers served a carpenter's apprenticeship to secure a practical foundation for his profession, and then entered the office of Percy & Hamilton, architects, succeeding to their practice in 1900.

In 1902 he formed a partnership with Clarence R. Ward, the firm being known as Meyers & Ward. This was dissolved in the latter part of 1909.

Mr. Meyers has had charge of the erection of many structures in San Francisco, including the Kohl building, Wells Fargo building, Alaska Commercial building, Samuels' Lace House, Winchester Hotel, Friedman's Furniture House, and many others.

He has also erected the Alexander Young Hotel, Honolulu, Stockton Savings and Loan Society, Stockton; People's Savings Bank, Sacramento; First Presbyterian Church and First Methodist Church, Alameda.

Mr. Meyers was married to Miss Bertha S. May in 1894 and has three children.

Charles Henry Oatman

CHARLES HENRY OATMAN was born in Sacramento, California, January 20, 1862. He graduated from the University of California at the age of 20 years, and has assiduously applied his learning in the practice of his profession as attorney. Today his name stands among the foremost who have fought for law and order in San Francisco and the development of the city.

His father, Ira E. Oatman, crossed the plains to California in 1849.

With the virile blood of the pioneer in his veins, and endowed with an exceptionally bright mind, it is not to be wondered at that Mr. Oatman should be placed on the roll of fame in the making of San Francisco.

JAMES S.
HORSBURGH

Will D. Shea

WILL D. SHEA is one of San Francisco's home product architects, and for three years held the position of city architect in the city of his birth. He has been a prominent fraternal and club man for years. He was a director of the Olympic Club for five years, is a member of California Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West, and for a long time was a member of the Grand Parlor. He also belongs to the San Francisco Lodge of Elks, to the Knights of Columbus, and to the Young Men's Institute, besides being a member of the Menlo Country Club. Mr. Shea is a Democrat in politics. He is married and has two children, a girl of eight years and a boy of seven.

William B. McGerry

SAN FRANCISCO'S real estate men, by their faith in the city and their untiring work in the promotion of its properties, have played a big part in its making and in investing it with never-dying prosperity. William B. McGerry ranks among the realty men who have never lost their confidence and who have had their belief in their home city justified in ten-fold measure.

Mr. McGerry has been prominent in his field of operation for several years. He came to the West from New York, where he was born.

Like many another successful business man in San Francisco, he has a college degree that fitted him originally more for the life of the student than the life of the money maker. He is a graduate of St. Lawrence University in New York.

P. H. McCarthy

P. H. McCARTHY, ex-Mayor of San Francisco, was born in County Limerick, Ireland, March 17, 1863. He was apprenticed to a builder, under whom he became a journeyman. In 1880 he came to America, locating first in Chicago, and later removing to St. Louis, where with six other artisans he organized the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. It was in 1886 that he came to San Francisco, where he soon began his efforts to bring the mechanics of the building trades into closer affiliation. In 1894 the San Francisco Building Trades Council was launched, and Mr. McCarthy has ever since been its president. He has also been a member of the executive board of the National Brotherhood. He took an active part in framing the charter under which San Francisco is now governed, and in the debates of 1896, when the charter was framed, surprised the public by his knowledge of municipal law. He was responsible for the eight-hour day for city labor, and the $2 minimum wage clause in the charter. Upon the adoption of the charter, Mr. McCarthy was appointed Civil Service Commissioner by Mayor J. D. Phelan, serving four years and accomplishing much for the wage-earners.

On November 2, 1909, Mr. McCarthy was elected Mayor of San Francisco by a majority over two opponents of more than 10,000, carrying with him into office almost the entire Union Labor ticket.

Willard O. Wayman

AMONG the leaders in the insurance business in San Francisco is Willard O. Wayman, who was born in this city in 1871, and who began his business career with the Alta Insurance Company at Stockton in 1899. Later he took up general agency, representing the British America, Michigan Fire and Marine, and the People's of New Hampshire. In 1897, at the age of 26, he was appointed manager for the Coast of the Merchants' Fire Insurance Co. of Newark, and later of the Girard Fire and Marine of Philadelphia. In 1901 the firm of McNear & Wayman was established, being at present general agents for the National Fire Insurance Co. of Hartford, the Colonial Fire Underwriters' Agency, and the Mechanics and Traders' Insurance Co. of New Orleans. The firm has progressed with remarkable success. In 1898 the year's premium income was $67,000, ninety odd companies surpassing this business on the Coast. In 1909, the premiums were more than $1,218,782, the firm ranking fourth in the list of general agencies on the Pacific Coast, as regards premium income.

C. A. HENNING

Wiley F. Crist

ONE of the progressive young Republican attorneys of San Francisco is Wiley F. Crist, who has offices in the Monadnock building. He was born in Victoria, Illinois, in 1878, belonging to an old Illinois family and descended from ancestors who came to America in the historic Mayflower. He is a graduate of George Washington University with the class of 1899, and has been practicing his profession in San Francisco for seven years. He was married in February, 1909, to Miss Frances Warner, and has an infant son, Wiley F. Crist, Jr. Mr. Crist has taken an active interest in civic and party affairs in San Francisco, as well as in the affairs of the Masonic order, of which he is a member. He has a large legal practice, and his standing at the California bar is the envy of many an older practitioner.

Cyrus Peirce

CYRUS PEIRCE, banker, declares there are no records extant to prove that he was ever blessed with ancestors. His father was Joshua Peirce, and his mother Mary E. T. Peirce, and he was born in Bristol, Pennsylvania, the Peirces being all of old Quaker stock. But farther back than this Mr. Peirce has not followed the genealogical tree. Until recently Mr. Peirce was a Republican, but says he is not sure now whether he belongs to any party or not. In a more serious biographical vein, however, Mr. Peirce is a prominent figure in business circles, being Pacific Coast manager of the N. W. Halsey Company, and director as well in a number of corporations. His wife was formerly Miss Maud Rowan Reid, and they have one child, about seven years of age.

W. L. McGuire

WILLIAM L. MCGUIRE, attorney at law and oil operator, is a young man who has risen to prominence both in the business and official life of California. Born in Missouri in 1874, he moved with his parents to New York a year later, and came with them to California in 1885. He graduated from Stanford University in 1896 and at once began the practice of law, which he pursued for ten years.

For twelve years he has been actively engaged in oil production, being one of the first operators in the Coalinga field, and being heavily interested in the Coalinga, Midway, Lost Hills and Maricopa districts. He holds important positions with several of the biggest oil companies, and is vice-president of the Portola Improvement Co., owning townsites along the Western Pacific.

Mr. McGuire was a member of the California Legislature from 1907 to 1909, and was Secretary of the State Bank Commission under Governor Gillett. He is a Republican in politics.

Mr. McGuire was married six years ago to Miss Mabel Agee, and has one daughter, Wilma. He is partner of C. H. Holbrook, Jr., in handling high-class oil and mining investments.

J. Charles Green

J. CHAS. GREEN has been aptly described as a compact bundle of energy and enthusiasm. It is these qualities that have placed him among San Francisco's most progressive business men. Largely through his efforts since the fire of 1906 the city has been enriched by the building of the Princess and Garrick Theatres in Ellis Street, the Auditorium building at Page and Fillmore, and the Valencia Theatre in Valencia Street, one of the largest and best equipped playhouses in the West. He will shortly construct an office building for what is said to be the best equipped outdoor advertising plant in America.

Mr. Green has been in the outdoor advertising business for twenty years, and has succeeded by perseverance and enthusiasm, by his sense of values, by his technical knowledge of his business, and by his ability to solve knotty problems for the merchants making outdoor advertising displays.

Theodore W. Lenzen

MANY beautiful California buildings that stand as landmarks in their communities are monuments to the architectural skill of Theodore W. Lenzen, whose offices are at 709 Humboldt Bank Building. Mr. Lenzen was born in San Jose in 1864. He is a son of the late Jacob Lenzen, with whom he was associated until 1900. During the fifteen years of this association he supervised the erection in San Jose and surrounding cities of many public buildings and residences, prominent among them being the Hotel Vendome and the Paso Robles Hotel. He visited Europe in 1886, spending the year abroad in travel and study. In 1890 he was married to Kate A. Berlingen. Two sons and a daughter have been born to them. Since coming to San Francisco he has supervised the construction of many flats and apartment houses, as well as business buildings. Among them are the Old Homestead Bakery, the Pacific Motor Car Company's three-story building at Golden Gate Avenue and Polk Street, and a three-story building for the American Foresters at Salinas. In politics he is a Republican.

Oscar T. Luning

OSCAR THEODORE LUNING, ranked among the leaders in the real estate and insurance field in San Francisco, was born in this city on December 11, 1861. His father was born in Germany and his mother in Dublin, Ireland. Mr. Luning was educated in Europe, graduating from college at Geneva, Switzerland, in 1879.

He entered business life in San Francisco as a young man and has been tremendously successful, as his standing in San Francisco commercial circles will bear testimony. Mr. Luning's wife was formerly Miss Mary Josephine Philippe. They have one child, a son, thirty years old.

While he has never held public office or done more politically than his duty as a conscientious citizen, he has always been a Republican.

Lewis F. Byington

LEWIS F. BYINGTON was born in the old historic mining town of Downieville, Sierra County. His father, Hon. Lewis Byington, a member of the Legislature of 1878, one of the best known pioneers of Northern California, was a native of Connecticut, but raised in Cincinnati, his parents moving westward to Ohio when he was a child. Lewis F. Byington received his early education in the public schools at Downieville, but was graduated from Santa Clara College, with high honors, at the age of eighteen, and later took the degree of Bachelor of Laws at Hastings College of the Law. He then took up his residence in San Francisco and was elected a member of the Board of Supervisors. His firm stand for honesty and improvement in civic affairs led to his election as the first district attorney under the new charter. He was three times elected to this office the last time by a majority of 25,000 votes, carrying every one of the 303 precincts in the city, an unprecedented achievement. He personally prosecuted every important case and secured the greatest number of convictions of any district attorney in the history of San Francisco. Mr. Byington is a Past Grand President of the Native Sons, a member of the Elks, and known and respected throughout the state.

DANIEL A. RYAN

Mr. Ryan is one of the leading Attorneys of San Francisco.

Lester Herrick

LESTER HERRICK, certified public accountant, is a son of the late E. M. Herrick, president of the Pacific Pine Lumber Co., and was born at Newark, New Jersey, March 6, 1872. After graduating from McClure's Military Academy, he was associated with his father in the wholesale lumber business, and since 1898 has been a certified public accountant, forming a partnership with his brother, Aaron Herrick, in 1905.

He has been employed by the government, by many big corporations to expert books, Mr. Herrick is a member of the Merchants' Exchange, the San Francisco Commercial Club, the Bohemian Club, and the Rainier Club of Seattle.

John J. Gleason

EVERYBODY who reads the sporting pages of the daily press—and that means nearly everybody who reads at all—knows John J. Gleason, who is universally called "Jack." Aside from an occasional plunge into the promotion of ring encounters, notable among which was the Jeffries-Johnson battle at Reno in 1910. Mr. Gleason devotes his time to baseball. He has for several years been associated with the management of the San Francisco "Seals." He was once leader of the Olympic Club.

Mr. Gleason is a son of John and Bridget Gleason, and was born in the state of Washington in 1871. He is a graduate of the College of the Sacred Heart in San Francisco.

Richard W. Costello

RICHARD W. COSTELLO is vice-president and manager of the big dry goods firm of O'Connor, Moffatt & Co. He was born in New Jersey in 1878, his father being a native of County Limerick, Ireland, and his mother a native of London, England.

Mr. Costello was educated at St. Xavier's College, Cincinnati, and Santa Clara College, California.

He has been engaged in the dry goods business for many years and is a director of the Merchants' Association of San Francisco.

He was married in 1902 to Miss Mary Welsh. They have five children.

George H. Strong

IT IS a pleasure to present a few facts about George H. Strong, who, in a quiet and unobtrusive way, has done much for San Francisco. Mr. Strong was born at Northampton, Mass., and is a graduate of Dartmouth College. He is a descendant of the early Pilgrim Fathers, tracing his ancestry back to that John Strong who landed on the bleak shores of Massachusetts in the year 1630.

His profession is that of Patent Solicitor and Attorney, but he has given much of his time to the promotion of athletics. He was for years a member of the directorate of the Olympic Club, the Pioneer Rowing Club, the San Francisco and Oakland Bicycle Club, and the Alameda Automobile Club.

DR. HARTLAND LAW

Harry L. Roff

John J. Sheahan

FORTY years of insurance work in the neighborhood of San Francisco bay is the record of Harry L. Roff, general agent of the Home Insurance Company. Born in St. Louis, Mo., more than sixty-eight years ago, Mr. Roff came to California in a prairie schooner, and began to be a money earner as one of the riders of the famous pony express. Subsequently he worked for the Wells Fargo Express Company, and on May 7, 1870, settled in Oakland as local agent for the Home Insurance Company. He has been in the one company's service ever since, having been made general agent of the San Francisco office in 1898. The company's success is testimony of his energetic labor.

SHARING office responsibilities with Harry L. Roff, general agent of the Home Insurance Company, is John J. Sheahan, who is assistant general agent for the same company. Beginning as a special agent in June, 1892, Mr. Sheahan has climbed through every department to his present position of importance.

Mr. Sheahan is a native of Toledo, Ohio, where he was born January 29, 1866. He is married and has two children.

To his efforts and to those of General Agent Roff have been due the success of the Home Company, which, having acquitted itself with credit in the days following the great fire, is now back again in a fine building in the heart of the underwriting district.

William Valentine MacNevin

WILLIAM VALENTINE MacNEVIN, vice-president of the firm of Landgrebe, MacNevin and Jones, one of the foremost of real estate and insurance agencies in San Francisco, with offices in the Clunie Building, 525 California street, was born in San Francisco in 1882. He is a great grandson of William James MacNevin, the Irish patriot, who was an associate of Robert Emmett. His grandfather was agent for the vast estates of Lord Rosse in Kings County, Ireland, and was a noted astronomer; while his father, Henry P. MacNevin, was until his death in 1885 one of the prominent civil and mining engineers on the Pacific Coast.

William V. MacNevin has been actively engaged in the real estate business for the past thirteen years, and is recognized as one of the most conservative real estate experts in San Francisco. His thorough acquaintance with the business and the esteem in which he is held by bankers and other business men, has inspired great confidence in his judgment upon the buying and selling of real estate.

MILTON C. CLARK

William M. Abbott

TO BE successful in whatever calling he may adopt may well be the ambition of any man. Among the overcrowded professions open to the young man of the present there is probably none in which success is harder of attainment than that of the law.

William Martin Abbott is one of those individuals whom the difficulties besetting the path of success serve only to stimulate to further effort, as his present position in San Francisco will demonstrate.

Mr. Abbott was born in San Francisco on March 17, 1872. In 1893 he graduated from the Hastings College of Law. From 1899 to 1902 he was Deputy Attorney General for the state of California. At present he is general attorney for the United Railroads of San Francisco, and is recognized as one of the foremost members of the legal fraternity of San Francisco.

W. H. METSON

D. E. Alexander

DANIEL EARP ALEXANDER, attorney and counsellor at law, son of Benjamin Franklin Alexander and Caroline Way Hiveley Alexander, was born at Jackson, Miss., February 7, 1845, but has lived in California ever since he was nine years old. He graduated from the Sacramento High School in 1866, and a few years later began the practice of law. Being a Democrat, and his party not being permanently dominant in the government, Mr. Alexander has never sought any political preferment, being content to vote at each election and to follow steadily the practice of his profession. For more than twenty years Mr. Alexander has been a resident of San Francisco. He was married on November 13, 1881.

W. L. Hathaway

W. L. HATHAWAY, manager of the San Francisco office of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, has been in the employ of that concern for twenty-two years, having spent practically his entire business life with it. Born in Providence, R. I., in 1867, Mr. Hathaway comes from an old New Bedford, Mass., family, his ancestors dating back to the early Puritan settlers of that district. In 1893 he was married to Miss Caro L. Paulson, of Copenhagen, Denmark, and has two daughters, the Misses Marie and Mabel Hathaway, the family residing at the St. Regis apartments, 1925 Gough street, San Francisco. Mr. Hathaway is an active member of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, the World's Fair Committee, and various other organizations concerned with civic and public affairs.

JUDGE W. P. LAWLOR

Robert Forsyth

FEW men can boast a more thorough equipment for their special line of work than is possessed by Robert Forsyth, consulting engineer. Mr. Forsyth has offices in the Merchants' Exchange Building.

Born in Lanarkshire, Scotland, in 1846, he received his training in the shipbuilding and engineering works of Randolph, Elder & Co., of Glasgow, and saw service later with the Pacific Navigation Steamship Co. He was also in the service of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co. for a number of years.

Mr. Forsyth was with the Risdon Iron Works for seven years and was for a long time engineer-in-chief to the Union Iron Works, San Francisco. He also served as president of the Union Iron Works Company.

He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, and the Technical Society of the Pacific Coast.

Charles Kean Harper

CHARLES KEAN HARPER was born in San Francisco on April 4, 1876. His father and mother were both of English birth. He spent his youth in the country and obtained his early education in the country schools. For a time he taught school, subsequently attending the University of California, entering with the class of 1904. For four years after leaving college he was on the road as a commercial traveler. During this time he studied law and immediately after passing the California Supreme Court examinations he began practice in San Francisco, having risen rapidly to the enjoyment of an excellent practice and a position of standing before the bar of his state. Mr. Harper is a Republican in politics. He is unmarried.

Will L. Greenbaum

WILL L. GREENBAUM, San Francisco's leading impresario, was born in Sacramento in 1866, and was raised and educated in the city of San Francisco. Graduating from the Boys' High School, he made a study of perfume chemistry and for many years was head of the largest perfume manufacturing company west of Chicago. An accomplished musician, he organized the Hinrichs-Eeel Symphony Orchestra, which later became the San Francisco Symphony Society, with Fritz Scheel as conductor. Gradually he drifted into the managerial profession, associating in business with Alfred Bouvier. After the death of Bouvier, Mr. Greenbaum gave up the perfume business and devoted himself to theatrical, operatic and concert attractions. He has brought to this city Pietro Mascagni, the Metropolitan Opera Company, the Melba Company, the San Carlos and Milan Opera Companies, the Damrosch Symphony Orchestra, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Nordica, Calve, Eames, Gadski, Paderewski, Hoffman, Ysaye, Kreisler, the Ben Greet Shakespearian Players, Miss Maud Allan and many other attractions of equal note.

of California

Patrick J. Calhoun

PRESIDENT of the United Railroads and one of the most prominent street railway men in all America, Patrick J. Calhoun stands as a type of the ever-resourceful, energetic and capable business leaders of the day. Born in South Carolina, March 21, 1856, the fifth and youngest son of Andrew Pickens Calhoun, who was the eldest son of the great statesman, John C. Calhoun, the subject of this sketch was left a penniless orphan at the age of nine. The best of American blood flows in his veins, his mother being a descendant of Mildred Washington, aunt of George Washington.

With characteristic determination of his family, he set to work to educate himself. He was admitted to the practice of law at the age of nineteen, and began practice in St. Louis. Becoming interested in problems of street railway traffic, he abandoned law practice to engage in this work. He effected the amalgamation of various railroads in the Southern states, and afterward brought the control of practically all public utilities into the hands of one company in Pittsburg. He gathered the railroads of St. Louis into one company and then accomplished the same thing in San Francisco.

Mr. Calhoun has four homes, one in San Francisco, one in Charleston, South Carolina, one in Cleveland, Ohio, and one in New York. He was married in 1885 to Miss Sarah Porter Williams of Charleston, and has eight children, four boys and four girls.

G. Albert Lansburgh

PERHAPS the architects of San Francisco more than any other class of people can be termed in truth the "Men Who Made San Francisco." They drew the plans for the actual builders to work upon, and much credit is due them for the work done since the great fire of 1906.

G. Albert Lansburgh holds an enviable position among the architects of San Francisco. He was born at Panama, January 7, 1876, and is the talented son of talented parents. His mother was a famous artist, Rebecca Pyke, and his father was a prominent merchant of Panama.

G. Albert Lansburgh studied architecture in France and graduated from the Ecole des Beaux Arts, Paris. He was also awarded a medal by the Paris Salon in 1906.

Edwin G. Bath

EDWIN G. BATH was born in 1879 at Bevier, Missouri, of Welsh and English parents. He graduated from the high school at Lewiston, Ill., in 1898, and later taught school for four years, at the same time taking up the life insurance business for the New York Life Insurance Company. He continued the insurance business in Illinois until 1904, when he moved to Los Angeles as manager of a department for the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company. A year later he was sent to San Francisco as the company's general agent of the accident and health department. He graduated from the Hastings College of Law in 1909, and is making a specialty of insurance law. He was married in 1904 and has one child, a daughter. Mr. Bath belongs to the University of California Club, Phi Delta Theta fraternity, and Knights of Pythias. He is a Republican in politics.

JAMES N. GILLETT
Former Governor of California

Adolph Leopold Weill

AMONG the successful lawyers and business men of San Francisco, there is probably none more deserving of being included in a work of this nature than Adolph Leopold Weill.

Mr. Weill was born in Petaluma, Cal., January 8, 1876, of a family that had lived in California since the golden days of 1850. Today he is a prominent and respected citizen of San Francisco, in addition to be an able lawyer with a state-wide practice.

Mr. Weill has always been a Republican and is very strong in his political views. He graduated from the University of California in 1897 and from the Hastings College of Law in 1899.

He has in late years represented large interests in the various oil fields, and went to Washington as representative of the oil men in obtaining a modification of the Pickett Bill, relating to oil land entries.

James Woods

JAMES WOODS, manager of the St. Francis hotel, needs no introduction in San Francisco. The work he has done in connection with this splendid hostelry is known not only in San Francisco but all over the world.

Mr. Woods is the original hail-fellow-well-met and is, without doubt, one of the greatest hotel men in the world. He is an advocate of Jeffersonian Democratic principles. In 1898 he married Miss May B. Healy of San Francisco.

Walter D. Wagner

WALTER D. WAGNER, long recognized as one of the most popular and influential office holders of Southern California, was born in San Bernardino, and in his native city rose to political prominence, being elected for three successive terms to the office of auditor of San Bernardino County. He is now secretary of the State Railroad Commission. His popularity has not by any means been confined to Southern California, for two of the greatest fraternal orders in the state have honored him. Long a member of the Native Sons, he held every office in Arrowhead Parlor of his home city, and then rose in the grand lodge until he became grand president. In similar fashion did he progress in the ranks of the Knights of Pythias, until he was elected grand chancellor of the California domain. He has an acquaintance extending all over the State, and has long been recognized as one of the most efficient and painstaking clerical office holders in the Counties of California.

E. Myron Wolf

E. MYRON WOLF, attorney-at-law, has long been identified with insurance matters in the West. This is due, in a measure, to the fact that Mr. Wolf has made a specialty of insurance law, but in greater measure to the fact that for eight years he was State Insurance Commissioner.

Mr. Wolf was born in San Francisco on October 19, 1871. He was educated at the University of California, beginning practice here, in 1897 when he was admitted to the bar. He is a Republican politically and is vice-president of the Pacific Surety Company.

Carlton Hobbs Wall

IT DOES not require a very great stretch of the imagination to see that those engaged in the lumber business have a good claim to be numbered among the "Men Who Made San Francisco" in the most literal sense.

Carlton Hobbs Wall is a native of California. His parents crossed the plains from Missouri in 1844 and settled in Oregon City. From there they removed shortly after to Crescent City, California, and engaged in the lumber business.

After leaving college C. H. Wall also became connected with the lumber business and built up the concern now known as Hobbs, Wall & Co.

Carlton Hobbs Wall is president of the Techau Tavern Company and of the Wall Estate Co. In addition to other business connections, he has large interests in the California oil fields.

W. J. DUTTON

John Morrisey

JOHN MORRISEY who for the past twenty years has been Manager of the Orpheum Theatre, San Francisco, can truthfully boast that his friends are legion. Everybody knows and likes "Genial John" as he is affectionately called and he always has a willing ear and a kindly handshake for every one he meets. Morrisey is to San Francisco what Beau Brummell was to London in the days of the Prince Regent for his sartorial equipment is always perfect and he has long enjoyed the reputation of being the best dressed man in the state. In his early life he was highly successful as a singer and dancer and an immense favorite throughout the country. He has always been a careful man and has provided against a rainy day. He recently built himself a handsome manor in the Piedmont Hills. He probably knows more theatrical people than any other man in the United States and it cannot but be a consolation to him to know that the performer has yet to be discovered who has an unkind word to say of John Morrisey.

U. S. WEBB

Smith O'Brien

SMITH O'BRIEN was born in Cork, Ireland, in 1868, and comes of a prominent Irish family, his mother being a sister of Sir Abraham Sutton.

He came to San Francisco in 1887 and there studied in the offices of various prominent architects. In 1902 he entered into a partnership with F. H. Meyer under the firm name of Meyer & O'Brien. They were the architects for many of the largest buildings in the city both before and after the fire of 1906. Among these buildings are the Rialto, Monadnock, Humboldt Bank and office building, Hastings, Gallen, Foxcroft, Hotel Cadillac, and many others.

In January 1908 the partnership with F. H. Meyer was dissolved and since then Smith O'Brien has practiced his profession alone. Among the prominent buildings which he has designed are the Rucker-Fuller Desk Company's building on Mission street, the Youths Directory, Burns' Hammam Baths, and the auditorium and lodge building of the Knights of Columbus.

He was married in 1899. He is a member of the Bohemian, Commonwealth and Automobile Clubs, and also of the S. F. Chapter of architects and the Knights of Columbus.

Thornwell Mullally

THORNWELL MULLALLY, assistant to the president of the United Railroads of San Francisco, was born at Columbia, S. C., January 17, 1868. He is a son of Francis Patrick Mullally, by birth an Irishman and one of the distinguished Presbyterian clergymen of the South.

Mr. Mullally was educated at Adger College, South Carolina, and the University of Virginia Law School, graduating subsequently from Yale with the class of 1892. He gained much college distinction as editor of the Yale Literary Magazine and as one of the Yale team in the debates of 1892. His brilliant scholarship won him the Thomas Glasby Waterman prize for scholarship.

Leaving college, Mr. Mullally continued his legal studies at the New York Law school, and began practice as soon as he graduated as a member of the firm of Arterbury & Mullally. The firm handled much big business, and Mr. Mullally, having shown great executive ability and a grasp of big affairs, was asked to come to San Francisco in his present position.

He arrived here early in 1906, and had hardly adjusted himself to local conditions when came the great disaster that threw the city into chaos. No greater testimonial of Mr. Mullally's ability as an executive can be given than to relate that within twenty-four hours after the earthquake and fire had laid the city's business section in ruins, he had the street cars running in Fillmore street on their regular schedule.

Frank Wood Griffin

TO FRANK WOOD GRIFFIN belongs much of the credit for restoring in recent years California's right to the name of "The Golden State." He was one of the pioneers in the gold dredging industry and is still prominently identified with this branch of mining, which has so materially increased the state's annual output of gold. Mr. Griffin was born in Weaverville, Trinity County, in 1873, his father being a pioneer banker who came to this state in 1850 and who served as treasurer of Trinity County for twenty years without an opponent. Frank Wood Griffin graduated from Harvard in 1896 as a mining engineer, though his present business is that of a capitalist. He was married in 1901 and has one child, a daughter. He is president of the Western Engineering and Construction Co., the Griffin Co., and the Alaska Bonanza King Mining Co., the Douglas Island Mining Co., and the Trinity Quicksilver Mining Company; first vice-president of the Natomas Consolidated of California, and a trustee of the State Mining Bureau. He is a Republican in politics, and is a member of the Harvard, Bohemian, University, and Union League Clubs of San Francisco, the Rocky Mountain Club of New York and the American Institute of Mining Engineers.

A. Christeson

A. CHRISTESON, vice-president and general manager of the Wells-Fargo and Company Express, has a career in the express business extending over a period of thirty-seven years. In 1873 he began with the American Express Co., serving it in various subordinate capacities until 1884. Then he became assistant superintendent at Denver for Wells, Fargo and Company, and from there progressed steadily through its service until in 1897, he was appointed manager at Kansas City and given charge of all the company's business between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains.

He came to San Francisco in 1899 as manager of the Pacific Department, was appointed general manager in 1906, and vice-president in 1908.

Mr. Christeson did able work following the fire of 1906. His company was among the first to construct temporary quarters in the old location.

He planned and directed the reconstruction of the company's splendid eight-story building at Second and Mission streets.

Henry Louis Detjen

SAN FRANCISCO is noted the world over for its restaurants. Here, say the epicures of every land, one can feast as nowhere else. Consequently restaurant and hotel men occupy a position of importance in the life of the city, by upholding its traditions and its fame. Henry Louis Detjen has the double distinction of being a restaurant man himself and of being a son of a pioneer San Francisco hotel man. Mr. Detjen was born in San Francisco of German parents. For fourteen years he has been in the restaurant and bakery business on the water front and has built up the largest business in that district. He is proprietor of the Vienna Cafe at 17 Market street. He was educated in the public schools and is a Democrat in politics. Mr. Detjen is generally regarded as one of the solid business men of the water front section of the city.

SAMUEL SHORTRIDGE
Well Known Attorney

Samuel B. Welch

PRESIDENT of the firm of Cunningham, Curtiss & Welch. Samuel B. Welch is the head of one of the leading stationery, paper and bookselling concerns of the Pacific Coast. Mr. Welch belongs to a family that has been distinguished in American history. His grandfather was a soldier in the war of 1812, and his great grandfather a soldier in the Revolutionary War. He was a son of Samuel B. Welch and Eliza L. Welch, and was born in Charleston, South Carolina, in March, 1849.

Mr. Welch attended college, but circumstances arose preventing his graduating. He has long been an independent in politics. His wife before her marriage was Miss Alice Crighton.

Lewis Pierce

LEWIS PIERCE, the subject of this brief sketch, is a native and one of the foremost residents of Suisun Valley. In fact, he is one of Solano County's wealthiest men, and recognized by his ability as a stockman. He is a worthy successor to his father, the late Lewis Pierce.

Lewis Pierce's ranches in Suisun Valley can easily be said to be unsurpassed in California. His home place, in the heart of the Valley, is the very choicest fruit land, but the properties he is most interested in are his two ranges, one of three thousand acres or more of valley lands, the other of as many acres of marsh lands, over which graze his hundreds of head of fine cattle.

Mr. Pierce, personally, manages all his business affairs, spending the greater part of the year at his home in Suisun. In addition to his attention to his cattle interests, Mr. Pierce finds time always to have a few fine horses cared for at his farm. He is a life member of Vallejo Lodge No. 559, B. P. O. E., the Pacific Union, Union League and Olympic Clubs of San Francisco, and Armijo Club of Suisun.

ROBERT J. DUNPHY

John William Van Bergen

THE LATE JOHN W. VAN BERGEN was one of the men who contributed much to the upbuilding of the city of San Francisco, and a work of this nature would not be complete without mention of this worthy man.

Born in the city of New York, May 31, 1853, he came to San Francisco with his parents in 1856, and up to the time of his death in 1898 was one of the leading citizens of San Francisco.

He was a director in many of the city's financial institutions, among others the First National Bank and German Savings and Loan Society.

He was for many years the head of the wholesale liquor firm known as N. Van Bergen & Co., and was recognized as one of the leading Republicans of the State.

Martin Beck

MARTIN BECK, Managing Director of the Orpheum Circuit, has his headquarters in New York, although much of his time is spent in Europe in the pursuit of his business. He books all the acts for the Orpheum theatres and is a power in the world of vaudeville. He knows the merit and value of an act immediately he witnesses it and his judgment is regarded as final by the leading theatrical managers in this country and in Europe. Mr. Beck is not only a man of wonderful executive ability, but he also possesses the true artistic temperament and his constant aim is the uplift of vaudeville. His experience has taught him that the public want only the very best and he never fails to give it to them; for instance, he induced David Belasco to prepare and present in vaudeville "Madame Butterfly" and "The Drums of Oude," both of which are scoring brilliant successes. Mr. Beck's greatest achievement and one which caused the entire theatrical world to gasp with amazement was the engagement of Madame Sarah Bernhardt for a tour of the Orpheum Circuit to commence this fall.

Henry C. Smith

HENRY C. SMITH is one of the prominent young architects of San Francisco. Born in San Jose, Cal., he began his architectural studies at an early age and has had wide experience in the practice of his profession both here and in the East.

After graduating from an architectural school and taking a post-graduate course in Philadelphia, he was associated with a firm of able architects in the East for four years.

In 1900 he returned to his home and commenced practice in San Francisco. He has been unusually successful here, having designed more than 125 school buildings throughout the State in conjunction with his former partner, Louis S. Stone.

Mr. Smith has gained no little distinction by his original treatment of the hills surrounding San Francisco, and the unique and artistic monuments to his artistic skill in this direction which may be seen throughout the city have earned him the sobriquet of "the hillside architect."

C. A. Muessdorffer

C. A. MUESSDORFFER, architect, was born October 25, 1871, in California, being a son of K. Muessdorffer, a pioneer of 1853. He showed talent for drawing when but eight years old, and his parents put him in the care of Professor S. Widder, who directed his technical education for the succeeding ten years, grounding him thoroughly in architectural studies. He began to practice his profession at the age of 24, and during the past fourteen years has attained an enviable position. Among the buildings he has designed and erected are the Fraternal Order of Eagles' home, the Portuguese American Bank, the Family Club, the Marvin building and the St. Regis apartments, besides many others. Mr. Muessdorffer took an active part in the rebuilding of the city after the fire of 1906. He is a Republican in politics, and is now serving his second term as trustee of his home town of Ross, Marin County.

Frank Cromwell Phelps

THE subject of this sketch, Frank Cromwell Phelps, has long been one of the most widely known of the responsible officers of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company. Mr. Phelps comes of that sturdy New England stock that has always figured as a substantial factor in the affairs of our nation. His father was a native of Boston, Massachusetts, and his mother a native of Portsmouth, New Hampshire. He himself was born in North Brookfield, Massachusetts, on March 17, 1863. By profession an accountant, Mr. Phelps was traveling auditor for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and several of its associate companies before being appointed to his present position as auditor of the Pacific corporation. Although Mr. Phelps has been an interested worker in the ranks of the Republican party, he has never aspired to public office. Mr. Phelps is married and has two children.

Walter D. O'Brien

WALTER D. O'BRIEN was born in 1880 in San Francisco. He received his education at the California School of Mechanical Arts and the University of California. After leaving college he followed mining and railroad engineering and rose from chainman to locating engineer, having held positions as assistant engineer for the Southern Pacific Railroad, Indian Valley Railroad, and locating engineer for the Oregon and Pacific Railroad and the Western Pacific Railroad.

While on a visit in Eastern cities, he became conversant with the method of financing real estate mortgage loans through bond issues. In 1906 he established the firm of Clarke & O'Brien, Bond Brokers, in the First National Bank Building, for the purpose of handling real estate mortgage loans and bonds in San Francisco. The firm is meeting with a great deal of success.

COL. J. C. KIRKPATRICK

Parker S. Maddux

PARKER S. MADDUX, Assistant United States Attorney, was born at Dixon, California, May 29, 1880. He is a son of L. J. Maddux, of Modesto, who has been for several terms district attorney of Stanislaus County.

Mr. Maddux was graduated from the University of California in 1902. He then attended the Harvard Law School and was graduated there in 1905, returning at once to the Pacific Coast to begin practice. His work in the United States Attorney's office has won him high praise, as his position at the California bar is already one of distinction.

Oscar Sutro

OSCAR SUTRO is a member of the widely-known law firm of Pillsbury, Madison & Sutro. His father, Emil Sutro, was a native of Aix la Chapelle, and came to this country in 1853. Mr. Sutro was born in Victoria, B. C., graduating from the University of California with the degree of B. L. in 1894, and obtaining his M. L. degree the following year. He was a member of the California Legislature in the 1901 session, and that same year went to the Philippines, where he practiced law until 1904, when he returned to San Francisco. Mr. Sutro is a Democrat. He is married and has three children, Mary Ann, Barbara and Oscar Sutro, Jr.

Jesse Warren Lilienthal

JESSE WARREN LILIENTHAL, Vice President of the Bar Association of San Francisco, is one of the foremost lawyers on the Pacific Coast. His firm, Lilienthal, McKinstry & Raymond, is one of the best known law firms in the West.

Mr. Lilienthal has been very active in charitable and civic affairs. He is trustee for the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, the Tuberculosis Society, the Temple Emanu-El and the Child Labor Commission.

For three years he served on the Probation Committee of the Juvenile Court of San Francisco. He is a graduate of the Cincinnati College and of the Harvard Law School.

He was born in New York in 1855 and has been a highly respected citizen of San Francisco for many years.

H. V. CARTER

Charles Wellington Cobb

BORN at Gilroy, California, in 1871, of pioneer parents, Charles Wellington Cobb took up the special study of law after completing his general school and collegiate course, and was admitted to the bar by the California Supreme Court in 1897. He began practice in San Jose, where for many years he was a partner of E. M. Rea. Coming to San Francisco immediately after the big fire of 1906, Mr. Cobb formed a partnership with Francis J. Heney, the famous government lawyer, and through the association was employed to assist in the historic San Francisco graft prosecution. This has been Mr. Cobb's sole deviation from his strictly civil practice, to which he has confined himself since dissolving his partnership with Heney in 1909. He has a large practice, particularly in corporation, land and probate matters, being counsel for some of the largest concerns and estates in the city. Mr. Cobb is married and has one child, a daughter.

William J. Herrin.

ONE of the most competent of San Francisco's attorneys is William J. Herrin. A native son, having been born in Yuba County, California, he is the true type of self made man, for by his own efforts he earned the money that enabled him to obtain a college education and later graduate from the Hastings College of Law.

He entered upon his profession in Oroville, and it was but a short time before he was recognized as one of the leading lawyers of Northern California. In 1892 he removed to San Francisco, where he has remained ever since, but the practice that he built in the North did not cease to grow, so that now, besides the great demand for his services here, it extends over many of the Western States. Mr. Herrin has always been a staunch Republican, but has never held political office.

Jacob J. Gottlob

JACOB J. GOTTLOB has for many years been one of the leading purveyors of amusement to the amusement-loving people of San Francisco. Born in Boston, Mass., in 1860, he came to the city of the Golden Gate as a young man and began his career in the theatrical business as treasurer and manager of the famous old Bush Street Theater.

Subsequently he was manager of the California Theater, and then with Melville Marx managed the old Columbia Theater, which just before the fire furnished San Francisco its finest line of theatrical attractions.

Immediately after the fire his firm built the Van Ness Theater, which housed the great stars and their companies until the opening of the beautiful new Columbia Theater in January of 1910.

Mr. Gottlob is one of the theatrical powers in the West and has never been identified with any but the highest class of attractions.

J. C. B. HEBBARD

H. A. Jones

PROMINENT among the army of railroad men of San Francisco is H. A. Jones, freight traffic manager of the Southern Pacific Company. Mr. Jones began his railroad career when he was 17 years old, starting with the Missouri Pacific in the humble capacity of a freight check clerk. After several years he moved to Sherman, Texas, where in 1874 he became yard clerk for the Houston & Texas Central, later becoming chief clerk and cashier at the same station. In 1878 he entered the service of the Pennsylvania Company as its commercial agent in Texas, resigning that position to return to Sherman as freight agent. In 1885 he became traveling freight agent for the same company, which sent him a year later to Dallas, Texas, as its freight and ticket agent. Later he became the road's assistant general freight agent, with offices at Houston. His next promotion was in 1892, when he was made general freight agent of the Southern Pacific Company's Texas lines. In 1901 he succeeded C. W. Bien as freight traffic manager of the same lines, and in 1905 was made traffic manager. He was brought to San Francisco as freight traffic manager of the Southern Pacific in September, 1906.

A. F. Rosseau

ARTHUR FRANCIS ROUSSEAU, architect and structural engineer, has been one of the most active men in his line in San Francisco for several years, having designed more than 100 buildings in this city. They have been for the greater part large apartment houses, representing every line of construction, steel frame, reinforced concrete and frame. Mr. Rousseau's father was a native of Paris, France, while his mother's birthplace was in Kentucky. He was born in St. Louis, Mo., August 13, 1885, and received private education in his profession.

Normand W. Mohr.

NORMAND W. MOHR first attracted public notice at the time he strenuously pleaded for the preservation and rehabilitation of the Old City Hall. Shortly after he served as city architect, when he successfully forced the correction and strengthening of many of our new school buildings, which had previously been dangerously and erroneously designed by others.

He was the first architect to design the Civic Center, combined with the 1915 Exposition—this several months before the site was selected. He has always been an ardent advocate of the plan for the improvement and beautification of San Francisco by the late famous architect, Daniel H. Burnham. He was born May 30, 1880, and for the past seventeen years has successfully practiced the profession of architecture.
